

Lexington 中文学校教学大纲

等级	教学目的	书册	应掌握	听的能力	说的能力	读的能力	写的能力	地理与文化	注释
Level	Objective	book	生字、词量	listening skills	Speaking skills	reading skills	Writing skills	Geography and cultrue	notes
CSL-1	Introduce Chinese language and culture to non-Chinese speakers.	1) Play and Learn Chinese with MeiMei DVD; 2) Write Chinese with Mei Mei; 3) Reference: Follow Jade	1) Count, color, body parts, greeting, fruits, vegetables, utensils, animals; 2) Games: Pull the carrots, drop the handkerchief, find the friends, Bingo; 3) Happy Birthday in Chinese;	Recognize the Chinese words. Can follow some directions in Chinese. Can understand questions and answer in Chinese.	Can say everything we learn in Chinese. Use correct pronunciation and tones.	Will learn 20 to 50 Chinese characters. Students should be able to read them and tell the meanings.	Can write some basic words and follow the direction to write the characters in correct order. Know the name of basic strokes (dian, heng, shu, pie, na, heng zhe, shu wan gou, ti)	Will introduce Chinese festivals: Moon Festival, New Year, Lantern festival and Duan Wu. Know which special food associates with which festival and why. Introduce Chinese Zodiac and Lunar calendar.
Adult-1	Introducing Chinese language and culture to non-Chinese speakers. Class taught in English. Topics covering greetings & introduction, time&date, numbers, hobbies, food&beverage s, colors, family members	Integrated Chinese, part 1, level 1 , 2nd Ed, Tao-chung Yao and Yuehua Liu, Cheng & Tsui Asian Language Series, ISBN 0-88727-434-X. Available in the UK bookstore or online at www.cheng-tsui.com .	1) understand and use 70 - 100 basic Chinese words	understand simple words and short expressions in the topics; be able to identify and distinguish different Pinyin Radicals and Finals.	1) comfortable to use common greeting expressions in Chinese; 2) able to answer simple questions with yes/no answer and short phrases within the topics 3) able to pronounce a Chinese character with the help of Pinyin 4) distinguish and master different tones	1) be able to read PinYin 2) not required to recognize Chinese characters;	not required	not required. Will introduce basics of Chinese characters. Topics regarding Chinese history, culture, holidays, geography etc will be discussed depending on students' interests. It is highly encouraged that student bring their questions and findings to share with the rest of the class.	focus of this class is to motivate the students to explore the beauty of Chinese language and culture.

Adult 2	Help students improve their Chinese function skills of listening, speaking, reading, and writing. The class is taught in Chinese.	Integrated Chinese, 2nd Edition , Tao-chung Yao and Yuehua Liu, Cheng & Tsui Asian Language Series, ISBN 0-88727-434-X. Available in the UK bookstore or online at www.cheng-tsui.com .	1) Be able to read and write at least 500 commonly used Chinese characters. 2) Be able to speak/use at least 1,000 Chinese words and phrases in conversations.	1) Be able to understand 2-minute dialogues. 2) Be able to understand 200-character-long monologues.	1) Be able to conduct conversations with native Chinese on topics such as describing weather, jobs, transportation, asking for directions, ordering food in Chinese. 2) Be able to convey one's opinions in simple Chinese. 3) By the end of the year, all students will be able to get around in any Chinese cities where Mandarin is widely spoken.	1) Be able to read and write at least 500 commonly used Chinese characters. 2) Be able to read short essays in Chinese and answer questions. 3) Be able to read menu at a Chinese restaurant.	1) Be able to write notes, letters, and recipes in Chinese. 2) Students are encouraged to make pen-pal with Chinese native speakers. 3) Be able to write Chinese text using accurate grammar.	None is required. But students are encouraged to read at least one of the Chinese classics and watch China related movies on their own. Students are also encouraged to take trips to China and visit Chinese families in town.	Prerequisite : Students should have already taken at least six months' beginner Chinese classes.
Special Class									